The campaign involved volunteers creating a pledge that condemned tobacco usage, which was then signed by students and faculty members across the college. The event was a resounding success, with enthusiastic participation from the entire college community. Volunteers passionately engaged their peers, encouraging them to take a stand against tobacco and its detrimental impact on health and society. The signed pledge, a symbol of the college’s commitment to a tobacco-free environment, was a testament to the collective effort and determination of the NSS unit and the college as a whole. The NSS unit’s dedication to organizing such impactful events showcases their commitment to community service and their ability to mobilize the college community for a greater cause. The success of this campaign serves as a testament to the NSS unit’s tireless efforts in promoting positive change and making a meaningful difference in the lives of the students and the community at large.
